SCHOCOLATE, A GIFT FROM GOD

Long time ago where chocolates weren't known as candies, the Mayans, first founder of cacao tree believed that is was a gift to man from the Gods, in fact they refer cacao as God's food. It was also used as currency, a sale could be bought for one hundred cacao beans, a rabbit for four! It was named the cacahuaquchtl, while no other tree was considered to be worth naming!

As the legend passed down from one magical land to another, The Toltects, Aztecs and The myterious Olmecs have all lost in the battle of holding on to chocolate until one day a white-faced European adventurer was lost at sea. Stranded in the mystical land, he came about cacao beans and was amazed by how rich and decadent it was, he decided ro take it home with him. Of course, by the time the Olmecs people discovered their cocoa trees were all stripped, the European has fled off with the food of the God, cacao to share with the rest of the world.. Hooray!!

However, it is to be said that till today the Olmecs are still finding the creature who had taken all their cacao trees.

Churros are classic Spanish tradition, eaten morning day or night with a sizzling hot chocolate. All our churros will be served with a dipping of your choice; and you could also choose between wing on curramon sugar as your topping. Enjoy!
